Some more info on the Typepad site: London Forbidden London is a 2012 British-American-Chinese live-action/CGI science fiction action film. It was directed by Richard Kelly and David Lancaster and written by Lancaster and Kelly, with both co-editing. The film stars Prinsloo and Airlie Jacobs. Synopsis In the near future, a young girl is hunted by the secret police of a totalitarian government as a terrorist. She is sent to an isolated location with her father, to prove that she is not a terrorist. Her dad is not revealed, but the film implies that he is a terrorist. She is met by a Royal Air Force pilot that may be the father she never knew, or an ally. Together they must work together to survive. Release The film was screened at film festivals in London, Prague, and Montreal. The film's cast and crew had previously worked on the Academy Award-winning 2005 film Munich.
